

HighJump Software Extends Offering with Introduction of Low-Cost RFID Compliance Solution to Meet Retail and Department of Defense Requirements

RFID Compliance Software, Hardware and Services Bundled for Rapid, Cost-Effective Project Completion

HighJump Software, a 3M company and the global leader in providing highly adaptable, best-of-breed supply chain execution solutions, today announced that it has developed a streamlined version of its successful Compliance Advantage solution. The newly released HighJump Compliance Advantage Select product is a prepackaged offering that meets current market demand for a new level of simplicity, affordability and extremely rapid implementation.

HighJump has helped numerous organizations meet RFID compliance initiatives of major retailers, the U.S. Department of Defense and others. Based on this experience and the discovery of unique ways to drive cost out of projects, HighJump developed Compliance Advantage Select. By combining a faster implementation methodology with a focused set of the most common workflows, this offering helps companies meet their RFID requirements quickly and within budget.

With a total price starting at $70,000, HighJump's Compliance Advantage Select features everything needed for full electronic product code (EPC) compliance, including: software, RFID reader and printer hardware, implementation services, product testing and training.

"HighJump has been a leader in implementing RFID solutions for several years," said Chris Heim, president of HighJump Software. "As part of 3M, we pride ourselves on providing the right solution for the right environment, and that includes being responsive to emerging requirements in the fast growing RFID arena. We're especially pleased that we can harness the experience we've gathered through numerous successful customer go-lives. Our faster, more cost-effective implementation methodology meets the needs of a broader range of customers concerned with RFID compliance."
