

3M Attenti Renames its Offender Monitoring Business to 3M Electronic Monitoring

ST. PAUL, Minn.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--3M Track and Trace Solutions announced today it is rebranding Elmo-Tech and Pro Tech Monitoring, its offender monitoring technology businesses, as 3M Electronic Monitoring. The businesses were acquired by 3M last year as part of the acquisition of Attenti Group.

3M Electronic Monitoring develops, manufactures and markets remote monitoring solutions for the criminal justice market. 3M Electronic Monitoring offers the market a broad range of offender monitoring solutions and operational experience to support a large variety of monitoring programs.

The brand is featured on a new 3M Electronic Monitoring website, www.3m.com/electronicmonitoring, which will serve current and prospective clients to learn about the company's capabilities and technology offering.

"Customers will continue to benefit from the combined expertise, reputation and commitment of a single, powerful organization under the same umbrella brand with the integration of electronic monitoring technologies into the 3M Track and Trace Solutions portfolio," said Rory Yanchek, General Manager, Track and Trace Solutions. "3M Electronic Monitoring will retain our established values and remain committed to our clients. We will continue to deliver the reliable products and services our customers have come to know and expect."

These changes will not affect product functionality or operating instructions. The 3M Electronic Monitoring brand will be visible on product literature, user guides, training materials, packaging and labeling, and software design.
