ST. PAUL, Minn.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--3M is introducing seven Command adhesive locker and decorative items to adorn, tidy up and organize teens and 'tweens' belongings both at school and at home as the latest addition to the brand's product line of self-stick hooks, clips, hangers, strips, cord bundlers and cord clips. There are hard and soft pockets; photo clips and micro hooks; a foam photo frame and mirror and a Stretch Web that works on the principal of an upholstered French memo board here a lattice of ribbon holds cards, photos and letters in place. The most expensive item costs $5.99.

Of the 36.11 million kids aged 6 to 16, 3M reports that there are 9.7 million girls looking for an effective way to showcase pictures and store their belongings in their lockers, said Pauline Allison, brand manager for Command adhesive products. "Until now, their other choices include permanent adhesives that can damage the locker's finish; ineffective magnets that slip down easily or falloff altogether when a locker door slams, or suction cup accessories that come off so easily," added Allison. Command adhesive sticks on most flat surfaces as long as required and when removed properly, comes off cleanly and easily, leaving no holes, sticky residue or marks. "While middle school children may not be decorating their rooms at home, some nevertheless enjoy expressing themselves by personalizing their lockers," said Allison.

Green vinyl pockets are open and blue pockets close like an envelope. They hold pencils, pens and other treasures. Sold together for a suggested retail of $4.99, they come with three glitter stickers.

A stretchy pocket, to accommodate various items like a calculator, small address book or cell phone, comes with three multi-colored photo clips that affix the pocket to the door of a locker. Suggested retail is $5.99.

The stretch web comes with a 30-inch-long multicolored stretch cord and eight colored clips that can hold art, notes, letters, birthday cards and pictures of friends. The system serves a double purpose of decorating and preserving an ever-changing gallery of trophies. In addition, pens, sunglasses and other items can slip behind the web. Suggested retail is $4.99.
